She has been arrested, brutally attacked, tear-gassed and deported. But never once has she retreated from the peace and social justice work she so deeply believes in.

Medea is a co-founder of the social justice organization, CODEPINK, and the international human rights organization, Global Exchange. Since the tragedy of September 11, 2001, she has worked to promote a U.S. foreign policy that would respect human rights instead of contributing to violence.

She recently stated, “We have to build a movement that takes on the arrogance and power, the tyranny of greed, the politics of hypocrisy, the idolatry of national security, the cancer of hatred, racism, sexism, the hysteria of nationalism, the sin of torture, the crisis of the environment, the madness of war, and turn that all into a culture, a country, that shows love, compassion, caring for the planet, and with that, we have to lift the voices of the peacemakers.”

She recently published Drone Warfare: Killing by Remote Control, and organized the first-ever international drone summit. Medea Benjamin has been on the frontlines for thirty years, shining light on the struggles of the world’s innocent and poor. We are honored to recognize her as this year’s Distinguished Peace Leader.
